ASMSU OFFICER ELECTIONS TODAY

THE MONTANA KAIMIN

Montana State University, Missoula, Montana

Volume LVII Z400

Wednesday, May 2, 1956 No. 98

Thomas, Perrior Solidly Back J-Council, Paid Secretary

Judicial council, Activities board, and the hiring of a paid secretary were all backed solidly yesterday by Shirley Thomas, candidate for ASMSU vice president.

"I think the matter of raising fees should be submitted to a student vote," the Missoula junior said in regard to budget matters. Miss Thomas has served as secretary of Alpha Lambda Delta, women's sophomore scholastic honorary; vice president of aquamarks; junior sponsor president of Corbin hall, and is a member of Kams and Dregs.

Speaking about Activities board she said, "I believe the newly-organized Activities board is a definite asset to the organization."

Roxie Perrior

Roxie Perrior, candidate for secretary, took similar stands on the J-council, and paid secretary issues.

On budget matters she said that the matter of paying ASMSU officers should be investigated more. "If a paid secretary is hired, I feel that the president only should be paid; but not out of the budget but out of a scholarship setup," she said.

Although she did not feel qualified to speak on the athletic department, she said that finance issues involving that group should come up for a student vote.

Speaking about the position for which she is running she said, "Since the secretary is a voting member of Central board she should be able to represent a cross-section of students as well as act in a secretarial capacity."

Miss Perrior, also of Missoula, is an active member of Panhellenic and has served on several ASMSU committees. She has been on the women's collegiate ski team for two years; served as WRA ski manager, and was chairman of the Northwest collegiate women's ski meet at Whitefish this year. She was Sponsor corps secretary and was elected ROTC co-ed colonel.

'Israel Situation' To Be Discussed At LA Meeting

Mrs. Dvora Elon, attache of the Israel embassy in Washington, D.C., will speak on "The Situation in Israel," Thursday at 4 p.m. in the Liberal Arts building and lead discussions in selected classes.

Mrs. Elon is well known in Israel as a writer, lecturer, and broadcaster on science and travel. She is the author of several textbooks used in Israel schools and is currently working with American women's groups.

From 1936 until her appointment to her present position with the embassy in May, 1955, Mrs. Elon taught biology at Israel's oldest secondary school, the Herzliyah high school in Tel Aviv, and at the Ruppin College for Agriculture at Emek Hefer.

In 1947, she spent some time at Columbia university studying American educational systems. She interrupted her stay in this country to join the Israel Defense Army and served throughout the Israel war as welfare and cultural affairs officer of an infantry brigade.

Typical of the election campaigns is the one presented by the Alpha Phis for their candidates. The AP's are shown campaigning in the dining room of the Lodge last week following the primary election.

Candidates Seek 12 Posts As Quiet Campaign Closes

Today is a day of decision and anxiety for 24 candidates as MSU students go to the polls to choose their student body officers. Twelve positions are open for the coming year, including all ASMSU offices and eight positions on Central board.

Results of the election will be announced at the "Inaugural Ball" tonight in the Lodge. The dance, sponsored by the "M" club, lasts until 10:30.

Voting procedure is the same as in the primary, according to Dick Riddle, Libby, elections chairman. Polls opened in the Lodge at 9 o'clock this morning and will remain open until 5 p.m.

Voters must have student activity cards or they will not be allowed to vote, Riddle said. Students must have their activity cards punched and then sign a typewritten sheet. Booths will be furnished for voting.

Constitutional Changes

Besides voting on ASMSU officers students will cast their ballots on the proposed constitutional changes. Forty per cent of the eligible voters must vote in order to have the amendments judged.

"If just a small group of students vote the majority haven't elected the officers," Riddle said. "Thirty-four per cent of the voters are carrying the ball while 66 per cent are complaining."

"Lots of students say that laxity and indifference is just a theory; but it is a hard, cold fact as shown in the primary election," Riddle stated.

The two proposed constitutional changes deal with Central board and Activities board. Both amendments are to change the wording of present parts of the ASMSU constitution.

Concerning Central board the amendment is to change the wording of the amendment passed on the Judicial council ballot. At that time an amendment was passed to state that there shall be one more name on the ballot than is elected to Central board in each class. The new amendment changes "one" to "twice as many."

Activities Board

If the other amendment is passed it will place Activities board under Central board and incorporate it into the constitution. Under the amendment the ASMSU vice-president would be placed in charge of the Activities board.

Candidates for ASMSU president are: John Fowler, Missoula, and Ron Lundquist, Billings.

Vice-presidential candidates are Marilyn Shope, Missoula, and Shirley Thomas, Missoula.

Running for ASMSU secretary are Norma Beatty, Helena, and Roxie Perrior, Missoula.

Entered in the race for business manager are Kay Blaszek, Missoula, and Bruce Cook, Butte.

Sophomores running for Central board are Larry Pettit, Lewistown; Audrey Wacker, Billings; Heather McLeod, Helena; Bill Steinbrenner, Missoula; Byron Christian, Kalispell, and Rick Benson, Glasgow.

Juniors on the Central board ballot are Bill Williamson, Box Elder; Tom Haney, Butte; Bill Adams, Park City; and Marcia Brown, Butte.

Kalispell Woman Files to Halt Flathead Closure

President Carl McFarland and Gordon Castle, dean of the graduate school, were among the defendants named Monday in a petition filed by Juanita B. Elliott, Kalispell, asking for a court order to prevent the closing of Yellow Bay park at Flathead lake.

The Montana Highway commission, state parks director Ashley C. Roberts, and caretaker Albert J. Loomis were also named defendants in the petition filed in Lewis and Clark county district court.

The petition contends that Montana State University intends to close the 100-acre park, located on the east shore of Flathead lake, May 1. The park usually opens on that date.

The petition says the University gave as a reason for the park closure the need for the biological station there to be protected. Her petition contends the University has no jurisdiction because its original grant was for only 15 of the 100 acres.

The petition states the University's purpose in closing the park would be to "create an exclusive country club, parading under the counterfeit guise of biological research and study."

Dean Castle, superintendent of the biological station, said yesterday the charge was "thoroughly unjustified." President McFarland was out of town, and could not comment on the situation.

Montana Track Team Defeats USAC 69-62

Logan (U) — Montana State University won its second track meet of the season yesterday defeating Utah State 69-62.

Only two points separated the Grizzlies and the Aggies before the final event, the mile relay. Montana won the relay to win the meet which was held on a slow track.

Aggie sprinter Ezra Smith won both the 100 and 220 yard dashes, but his times were only "routine."

L. J. Sylvester of Utah State was a double winner in the shot put and discus. Sylvester put the shot an even 49 feet and threw the discus 151'7".

Graduate Receives Purdue Position

MSU graduate Jim Roberts, Dillon, has received a graduate assistantship in speech at Purdue University. Roberts graduated winter quarter with honors in speech.

Entering MSU in 1952, Roberts took four years of debate and oratory, participated in the Aber Oratorical contest each year, and played bit parts in three Masquerade productions.

A member of the Tau Kappa Alpha honorary speech fraternity, Roberts served as president and vice-president of the organization. He was president, and vice-president, and captain of the oratory association, and captain of the debate team.

A member of the Theta Chi fraternity, Roberts served as chairman and Activities and Scholarship chairman. He was secretary of Interfraternity council.

At Purdue Roberts will do part time teaching, and will be paid $1,500 per year plus tuition.

Money or Honor?

Should the junior sponsors be paid? Or should they devote their time, energy and hard work to helping the freshman girls with problems, receiving only a personal satisfaction for doing a job well?

True, it is a definite honor for a girl to be chosen as junior sponsor, and she is not obligated to accept the position. But is it fair to ask a girl to spend most of her free time in the dorm, and not have a job or activities that require a lot of time elsewhere? This does not mean she is tied to the dorm, but these things are seriously considered when the girl is chosen to be a junior sponsor.

A girl doesn't apply for the job, she is picked from lists submitted by the present junior sponsors, head resident in the women's dorms, and the dean of women's office. The dean of women makes the final selection after she has interviewed the girls.

Prior to 1947 the junior sponsors were paid. In that year Miss Maurine Clow, dean of women, took over the program because she felt the positions had become one of paid police-women. Miss Clow inaugurated the present program, based on her experience at Washington State college, Stanford university, and Purdue university, where the position is considered an honor. It has worked out very well here, with the constant work of the dean of women's office and the cooperation of everyone involved.

Hardship to Missoula Girls

But it has been a hardship to some girls, especially those from Missoula. Room and board in the sorority houses is approximately the same as residence halls. The Missoula girl, however, does not figure this expense since she is living at home. To find the extra cash is often hard for the girl and her parents.

The dean of women's office is trying to work out a solution to this problem, though they have no large amount of money to work with and they don't want to revert to the old situation as it existed before 1947. The present program of giving grants-in-aid to those girls who don't have University scholarships, both amounting to $60, and allowing the girls first choice at desk work in the dorm for 50 cents an hour is inadequate. If a girl is going to be spending most of her time in the dorm, she should be able to receive wages at least comparable to those offered in other University jobs.

Perhaps she could receive a reduction in her room payment in exchange for working on the desk, like the resident assistants do in the men's dorms.

Granted the position should not be looked upon as merely a job, but should a girl have to sacrifice so much for the honor and personal accomplishment?—J.M.W.

Steam Valve ...

I think a new introspection into the well-muddled problem of student government on this campus is necessary to attempt an understanding of that age-old dog, "student apathy." The editor disclaims "apathy." The students insist on "apathy" as much as they insist on walking across the lawns.

I think that it is evident that "apathy" is not at the root of poor student government, but that student government is at the root of "apathy." There are apparently a goodly number of people who don't give a hoot or a hang about student government, and they are at least entitled to a fair appraisal: for them, student government is a juvenile farce, and it has no other function than to perform a few acrobatics on the outside of the tent of knowledge. It is then, a sideshow which cries out to the multitude who is rushing in to see the circus' main reason for coming to town.

But it must be said that the "tentacles" of the "vicious" administration stand menacingly along the road, always ready to clap those who assume this viewpoint into the chains of the educational and vocational system. There they will be applied most harshly to the "rack" of learning and will not be able to cry out for their rights to liberty, equality, and democracy.

Sincerely,
Quent Baker

X-Ray Dates Set By Health Center

Seniors and graduate students may obtain X-rays during the next three weeks at the Health Center.

The "pictures" are scheduled alphabetically. Students whose last names begin with the letters A to G may get them May 2-4; those from H to P are May 7-11; Q-Z are given May 14-18. All x-rays will be made between 1:30 and 4 p.m.

Free chest X-ray is a new service for the health center, made possible partly through a $600 grant by the local Tuberculosis association. This service will be extended to incoming freshmen next fall, during or soon after orientation week.

Chest X-rays are valuable in discovering tuberculosis in its early stages while treatment is still simple and effective. In the early stages, the disease has no external symptoms and cannot be discovered by ordinary physical examination. A periodic X-ray is often helpful in early recognition of certain lung conditions other than T.B., and several types of heart disease.

This is the first opportunity for students to have free chest X-rays on campus since 1954, when a mobile unit was here.

Bill Gue '55, who received his reserve army commission here last spring, recently graduated from the Infantry School's basic officers course at Fort Benning, Ga.

SPEECH FINALS POSTPONED

Finals for the Aber Oratorical contest have been postponed until Wednesday, May 9. They have been scheduled for tonight, but were shifted because of the all-University day program.

Five speakers will participate in the finals. They are JoAnn Jacobson, McMinnville, Ore.; Tom Haney, Butte; Clifford Hopkins, Liberty, Mo.; Lois LeDuc, Spokane, Wash.; and James Roberts, Dillon.

The speeches will be given in LA 204.

Cubs Downed 5-2 As 'Tips Prepare For Aggie Games

A practice game under the lights of Campbell Park Monday saw the Grizzlies come out on the long end of a 5-2 score over the Cubs, coached by Murdo Campbell.

Larry (Lefty) Shulz pitched the first four innings for the varsity with Roland Stoleson going in the last three frames of the game, limited to seven innings because of cold weather. Bruce Montgomery started on the mound for the Cubs, pitching five innings until he was relieved by Charles Moore who finished the game for the yearlings.

Sherbeck Pleased

Commenting on the Utah games last Friday, Coach Hal Sherbeck said he was real pleased with the performance of the Grizzlies in gaining a split against the league-leading Utah Redskins.

He said, "There were no mental errors to speak of and the team played a fine all-around defensive game. They hustled all the way and played the caliber of ball of which they are capable. The team's spirit was excellent during the Utah series."

The coach expressed some concern over the team's hitting which he said "could be improved."

Can Win

Turning to the up-coming Utah State games at Campbell Park Friday, the Silvertip mentor said, "If we don't let down we can beat the Utags."

While the Aggies are not as strong as Utah, Sherbeck said that a let down on the part of the Grizzlies could really hurt the 'Tips title aspirations. At Logan earlier this season, the Utags swept a double header from the Grizzlies.

Billings Will Get AL Baseball Finals

Billings (P)—The 1957 American Legion junior baseball finals have been awarded to Billings, according to Lou Brissie, national commissioner.

It will mark the second time in the history of the legion tournaments that the finals will be held in a Montana city. In 1934 they were held in Miles City.

In awarding the tournament to Billings, Brissie said, "The National Americanism commission felt that the wonderful co-operation and support of the Billings post by the baseball fans, businessmen, and civic organizations would result in the most enthusiastic and successful tournament in the program's history."

SPORTS-ATORIAL

By ED KING

Undoubtedly the United States will face the stiffest type of competition in the Olympic games at Melbourne, Australia next November. Therefore, it is important that the U.S. send its best athletes to Melbourne.

However, there is one sport, basketball, in which many do not believe the best available talent was picked.

Granted, such greats as Bill Russel and Chuck Darling were picked on the Olympic basketball team, but such standouts as Willie Naulls and Maurice Taft were shunned. In fact only three college players are represented on the Olympic squad. Six AAU players and three members of the Service all-star team make up the rest of the roster.

Colleges Shunned

Unquestionably, the selectors slighted the nation's colleges in their decisions. Under normal circumstances, as most cage fans agree, the best players come from the colleges, not the AAU or the Armed Forces. Now, out of the thousands of colleges in the country, only one college all-star team was allowed to participate in the Olympic basketball tournament held at Kansas City April 2, 3, 4. There are only eight National Industrial Basketball teams in the country. Yet, two of these amateur teams were allowed to compete in this tournament. One all-star service team also participated. Representation in the trials, therefore, was completely out of balance.

At Disadvantage

This college all-star team was at a disadvantage, because its members had never played together until the tournament at Kansas City. Certainly individuals on teams such as the Phillips Oilers or Seattle Buchan Bakers who have played together all year will look better against individuals playing together for the first time.

Remember now, that the Olympic basketball team is selected only on the performance of individuals in this tournament, not on their past season performance.

Solutions

It can be seen then, that the cards are stacked against the colleges in the Olympic cage tournament. Maybe one solution to this unfair procedure is to send at least two all-star college teams to the Olympic tryouts.

One way to give these two all-star teams the experience of playing together would be to send them on a tour before the Olympic tournament. The money these two teams would take in would be more than enough to pay for their trip. The rest of the excess money could go to the Olympic fund which finances the athletes' trip to the Olympic games.

If this plan would not work, then perhaps the best college team in the country should go to the Olympic tryouts. This team's members would have a better chance of displaying their best talents than a group of individuals who have never played together before.

A point which rankles many basketball fans is that the San Francisco Dons were not allowed to play as a unit in the Olympic tryouts. If they had been allowed to play in the tournament, there probably would have been more than three college basketball players on this year's Olympic team.

Certainly, a new system should be devised by 1960 to handle the selection of the U. S. basketball team on a fairer basis.

On the local scene, in order to have a consistently winning golf team we must have a golf course. As it is now, golf coach Ed Chinske can only have six or seven men working out on the links. He has to drop 10 or 15 men at the beginning of the season.

If we had a golf course, more interest would arise in the sport, and Chinske should be able to have more men working out and might uncover a great golfer this way.

Not only this, but a course would benefit all the University students who love the game but have no place to play.

While Grizzly baseball, track, tennis and golf teams were busy over the week end, our Cow College cousins were also hustling. Bozeman Bobcats tripped up Colorado Mines 71-60 in a Sunday track meet at Golden, Colo.

In Belgrade, just outside of Bozeman, MSC won the 10th annual Intercollegiate rodeo with a total of 336 points. Colorado A&M, champs for the past two years, was second with 285 points. Brigham Young, Idaho State, and Wyoming all had over 100 points apiece.

Foresters Conclave Begins Today; Nine Schools Attend

Today delegates from nine forestry schools gathered at MSU for the fifth annual conclave of the Association of Western Forestry clubs which is to run through Saturday.

The conclave is to aid member clubs in exchanging ideas, uniting their conservation efforts, discussing common problems, and engaging in contests of woodsmanship.

A new member of the A.W.F.C. this year is the Forestry club of the University of British Columbia, adding an international touch to the conclave.

This year's program is titled "Public Forestry." It will include speakers from the office of the State Forester of Montana and Region 1 headquarters of the U. S. Forest Service. Fred Brauer, chief foreman of the aerial fire depot, will be the featured speaker tomorrow night.

A trip to the Aerial Fire depot is scheduled for Thursday. That night a banquet will be held at the Florence hotel. Friday there will be general association business and discussions.

Friday night a dance will be held for the delegates in the Yellowstone room of the Lodge. Dates for the delegates will be arranged through the Dean of Women's office, Panhellenic council, and the Residence halls.

Saturday the grand windup of the affair will consist of woodsy contests—chopping, bucking, burling, pole-climbing, match-splitting and a cross-country obstacle race. The winner of the contests will get a loving cup; the school receiving the fewest points will take home the Rusty Pulaski, which two years ago Montana "won."

Forestry clubs attending are from MSU, University of California, Colorado A&M, University of Idaho, Oregon State college, Utah State Agricultural college, University of Washington, Washington State college, and the University of British Columbia.

Four Lodge Panes Broken

Four windows, three large picture windows and one small window, were broken in the Lodge Friday night, said Jack Uhler, assistant director of residence halls and food service.

The windows are valued at $336, he said. Each window costs $84.

Uhler said he was in the Grill when the first window was broken around 6:30 p.m. Several boys were walking across the patio in back of the Grill room when someone threw a rock at them. Uhler said he ran out to see if he could find the boys, but they had gone.

The other windows were broken later on Friday evening. Uhler said rocks were laying on the patio.

"I don't think it is vandalism," said Uhler, "but just one of those things that happen. I can't think of any reason for breaking the windows."

Uhler said he put in an order for spare windows in December and one window arrived today, the others have been shipped.

Tascher Is Named To Two-year Term On Social Board

Dr. Harold Tascher, associate professor of sociology and social work, has been named to serve a two-year term ending June 30, 1958, on the board of directors of the Council on Social Work Education.

He was appointed through a letter received from the president of the council which also elected him to a one-year term as chairman of the Division of Undergraduate Departments of the Council.

The Council was set up in 1952, when undergraduate departments and graduate schools joined forces with other segments of the social work profession to promote sound, programs of education for social work and to take responsibility for accreditation. The Council, which brought the various accreditation bodies into one national organization for the first time, carries on an extensive program which includes work on educational standard and social work curricula, recruitment of young people to the field, and related services to the profession. It also engages in research.

Councilman Asks Beer Can Pickup

Beer cans to be found along University avenue every Sunday morning provided one of the topics of discussion at the last city commissioners' meeting, Monday night.

Commissioner F. Gordon Reynolds, who lives at 330 University avenue, suggested that MSU students enter into a campaign to clean up the beer cans along this thoroughfare every Sunday morning.

Reynolds reported that he and other people living on University must make several trips from yard to garbage can each week

"just to pick up all the beer cans that have been tossed out of cars Saturday night."

He felt that it was very poor publicity for the University, to say nothing of the "good will between the townspeople and students."
